

LAW CONFLICTS WITH PROHIB ACT

Federal Judge Raises Hopes of Vets by His Decision.

ROANOKE, Va., Nov. 17.—The Volstead prohibition law and the law in effect prior to the passage of the Volstead act are in conflict, according to an opinion by Judge Martin A. Knapp, of the United States circuit court of appeals for the Fourth federal circuit, a copy of which was made public here by Joseph H. Chittwood, acting attorney for the Western district of Virginia.

The opinion, according to Mr. Chittwood, was rendered in the case of Beck v. Reed, plaintiff in error, against J. William Thurmond, United States attorney for Western South Carolina. Reed, according to Chittwood, was convicted on a charge of unlawfully aiding and abetting in the removal of a quart of liquor, upon which the tax imposed by law had not been paid. Mr. Chittwood added that Reed was fined $200 and sentenced to five months in jail for violation of section 3236 of the revised statutes.

Judge Knapp's opinion, according to Mr. Chittwood, holds that section 3236 of the revised statutes was repealed or superseded by the Volstead act, which went into effect for all purposes now in hand, January 15, 1933, the date of adoption. The judgment of the lower court was reversed and a new trial ordered.

KIDNAPING CASE IS CALLED IN U. S. COURT

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 17.—Charged with impersonating federal officers as an agent to kidnap the child of her child, Mrs. Alice Stansberry and four men—Fred Miller, John Craddock, Samuel R. Stansberry and Tom Ryan—were placed on trial before United States Judge Sanford here in probably the first case of its kind ever appearing in federal court in this section.

The kidnaping occurred a year ago and the alleged participants were arrested after being trailed to all parts of the country. Witnesses testified that the defendants approached the farmhouse in Bradley county where the child was living, and pretending that they had a writ of habeas corpus for its possession, persuaded Tom Stansberry, its foster father, to get in a machine and accompany them to Dalton, Ga. On the way, on the pretense that something was wrong with the automobile, Tom Stansberry was induced to get out when the kidnapers put on all speed and escaped, leaving Stansberry in the road.

MISSISSIPPI METHODISTS MEET IN CHARLESTON

(Special to The News Scimitar.) JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 17.—Dr. A. F. Watkins, president of Millsaps college, and Rev. B. F. Lewis, superintendent of the Mississippi Methodist conference, left last night for Charleston to attend the annual session of the North Mississippi conference of the Methodist church, now in progress at that place, with Bishop W. F. McMurray presiding.

Dr. Watkins and Mr. Lewis will submit the annual reports of their respective institutions to the conference. Both the college and the orphanage have made satisfactory showings during the past year.

The annual session of the Mississippi conference of the Methodist church will be held at Brookhaven, commencing on Dec. 1. Bishop McMurray will also preside over this gathering.

The Methodist church in both of the Mississippi conferences has enjoyed a substantial growth during the past year, both in membership and increase of contributions for various church causes.

TAYLOR CHOSEN HEAD OF BAPTISTS AT M'COMB

M'COMB, Miss., Nov. 17.—The Mississippi state Baptist convention opened in M'Comb yesterday with 700 in attendance. New officers elected Tuesday morning were as follows: Rev. J. A. Taylor, of Brookhaven, moderator; and Rev. S. A. Wilkinson, of Ruleville, secretary. The convention ends Wednesday.

ADVISES AGAINST STRIKE.

BELFAST, Nov. 17.—The Irish Nationalist press advises the railway men who went on strike rather than move trains carrying soldiers and police, to give in. The press points out that the strike will not check the transport of military and munitions, but will ruin the economic life of the country, especially the farming industry.

SCHOONER IS ASHORE.

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 17.—The four-masted auxiliary schooner Gaucha, 455 tons, Capt. Santry master, is ashore near Fort Morgan, according to advices received here. The vessel was driven ashore during a heavy norther while en route from Cuban ports.

Moving Pictures

Strand.

"Good References," a bright, breezy romantic comedy, with the inimitable Constance Talmadge in the leading role, is drawing her many admirers to the Strand theater this week. The play is Miss Talmadge's latest release and those who have seen it are declaring it is one of her most amusing and likable productions. As Mary Wayne, a pretty girl who is being kidnapped by a villain, she is shown in her most dramatic role, and her references to the play are most interesting.

Majestic.

Mildred Harris Chaplin will be the star at the Majestic theater, starting Thursday. Her new production is "The Inferior Sex," a romantic drama dealing with modern marriage. The star has been given a strong supporting cast, and it is expected that the production will be a success. The play is based on the famous story of "The Great Question," which has Lillian Gish, Robert Harron and other Griffith stars in the cast.

Princess.

Fate plays strange tricks with the plans of mortals. Little Doris Moore, drawn from her secluded home down into the maelstrom of the metropolitan underworld. How, when her chances for happiness seemed dimmest, Fate, in the person of honest Bill Lake, intervened, and she found the great love for which she was destined, who will see in R. A. Welch's initial production "The Deep Purple" based on Paul Armstrong's famous stage success of the same name, at the Princess theater Wednesday and Thursday.

Lyceum.

Admirers of Tom Moore are anticipating much enjoyment for the three days beginning Thursday, when the star comes to Lyceum in the famous farce, "Officer 666." In this policemen, servants and ordinary persons, are hopelessly befuddled. In addition, "Consequences," heralded as something new in the comedy film line, will be offered. The "Tiny" Symphony orchestra will continue to present enjoyable accompaniment music.

APPEAL IS MADE FOR RELIEF OF ARMENIANS

(Special to The News Scimitar.) JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 17.—An appeal to Mississippians to provide for only 1,250 of the tens of thousands of helpless Armenian children, to prevent starvation and ultimate extinction of the race, has been sounded by Judge Sydney Smith, chief justice of the Mississippi supreme court, who is serving as chairman of the Mississippi committee of the Near East relief.

As chairman of the Mississippi committee of the Near East relief, said Judge Smith, "I appeal to all Mississippians in behalf of the thousands of helpless Armenian children who have lost father, mother, and home, and who, if they are to continue to live, must be cared for until they are old enough and strong enough to care for themselves. Their own people can give them no assistance because of the condition to which they have been reduced by their long continued persecution by the brutal Turk."

"The Armenians were once happy and prosperous and have always been a Christian people, and their character is such that if helped now they will soon be in a position to help themselves. But startling as it may seem the fact nevertheless is that they are in danger of becoming extinct, unless the assistance which we are now giving them is continued, and one of the most effectual ways by which we can assist them, and which will appeal most strongly to us is to care for their helpless children."

"Five dollars a month will feed, clothe and educate an Armenian orphan. We are asking Mississippians to care only for 1,250 of these orphans and judging them by their past the amount necessary therefor should be easily raised."

Arkansas Students
Assign Irvin Cobb
Many Occupations

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 17.—Whether Irvin Cobb is a baseball player, an author or a composer proved confusing to many students at the University of Arkansas, when pressed for a hasty answer, and many of them during a recent test were inclined to believe that he was Babe Ruth's closest rival for fame in the annals of the national sport.

The test was given to freshmen by the bureau of tests and measurements at the University of Arkansas under the direction of F. M. Jordan. The questions and problems given the students to solve are the same as those used in psychological tests in the army and are propounded along any particular branches of study. The results of last year's tests when checked up by the records have shown that students' ability in his school work is almost parallel with his ability as shown by the psychological tests.

Among other unusual answers given by freshmen this year were: The clavicle is located in the abdomen; a Pagan has eight legs; emeralds are obtained from oyster shells; and a spark plug is in a car-buretor.

The object of the tests is to determine the quickness of perception of the individual and his general knowledge rather than his knowledge along any particular branches of study. The results of last year's tests when checked up by the records have shown that students' ability in his school work is almost parallel with his ability as shown by the psychological tests.

Army Educational Work Is Explained

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 17.—What the United States army is doing educationally was explained to the 2,500 school teachers who attended the annual meeting of the Arkansas Educational association here last week, by Burk K. Brendle, director of the Recruit Education center, at Camp Pike. During the teachers' sessions Mr. Brendle was in charge of an exhibit of the work done by some of the Camp Pike students displayed in one of the convention halls.

The educational work done by the Recruit Education center at Camp Pike, he explained, is similar to that being done at five other camps or army posts in the country. The students are recruits who are more or less illiterate and uneducated, and the majority of them are foreigners. The Camp Pike school now has approximately 500 students and a faculty of 18 members, several of whom are women.

Approximately four per cent of all cotton grown this year will be used for making automobile tires. It is estimated the crop will yield 10,000,000 bales while the tire industry will demand 400,000 bales. An average of four pounds of cotton is used for each tire. Only the very best grades are used in their manufacture. 1-1-8 inch staple or better.
